Colleen was born and raised in the small town of West Newton, PA. She graduated from Westminster College in New Wilmington, PA where she majored in accounting.

Colleen has over 30 years experience in corporate accounting and has worked in a variety of industries. She is very involved with the community, serving on numerous nonprofit board of directors. She enjoys collaborating with a diverse group of networking professionals which allow her to grow personally and professionally. She is passionate about finding ways to make a difference in the world each and every day.

Colleen's entrepreneurial spirit started came alive when she was introduced to Beautycounter. Beautycounter is a safe, clean skin care brand. It is powered by people and the collective mission is to get safe products into the hands of everyone. "Formulate, advocate, and educate" is the motto for Beautycounter, creating clean beauty products that truly perform while holding themselves to unparalleled standards of safety. Colleen decided she had to pursue this amazing journey and left the corporate world about two years ago. She is now a Director with Beautycounter, and has found that it fulfills her life in more ways than any corporate job had. Colleen is passionate about continuing to promote, educate, and share in BeautyCounter's amazing mission. Doing so has also allowed her the flexibility to be able to spend quality time with her family and friends and give back to the community.

Colleen has a 19-year-old son who is a sophomore at Slippery Rock University majoring in Physical Therapy. She is so proud of the man he is and she strives everyday to be the best role model possible for him.

Colleen is also a WIN Ambassador serving the WIN-Washington Chapter. She has a giving spirit and contributes every day to the personal and professional development of women while supporting the nonprofits and communities we serve.
